Sarah Tew/CNET Netflix's plans to launch competition in developing countries will launch after the upcoming FIFA World Cup, the company's CEO said Wednesday. Netflix CEO Reed Hastings told CNET News.com on Wednesday that the company plans to offer cheaper streaming packages in emerging economies and plans to launch in multiple new countries after its launch in India, via a joint venture with operator Tata Sky. The other countries are Morocco, Pakistan, Paraguay and the Philippines, according to Hastings. Many of these countries have underdeveloped telecom infrastructure -- even though their economies are growing and could offer great potential for Netflix and other digital content companies like it. Meanwhile, services like Google's YouTube, which has a long-term global play, haven't fared so well in developing nations, largely because of problems distributing content to weaker, poorly connected networks. "I think things have improved somewhat on the networks, but we want to get to places that we haven't yet reached and I think the World Cup is a good way to do that," Hastings said. "The World Cup has the cachet of being the biggest sporting event of the year and we'll see if soccer works out for us there. I've heard that they have wireless in the stands and It's an amazing adaptation of a new story." —Source, Famitsu Magazine Preview: February 24, 2018 Cincinnati Reds vs. Philadelphia Phillies Saturday, 2:30 p.m. ET (Sportsnet) A far-too-quiet season has ended in wild places for the Cincinnati Reds. A 5-2 win over the Colorado Rockies pushed the Reds into a first-place tie with the Milwaukee Brewers, and now, with the majority of games in the National League taken care of, the Reds have a shot at entering the postseason as a wild card. In past years, the Reds have enjoyed dramatic comebacks. Their 2015 comeback against the Phillies will go down in history as perhaps the most dramatic of them all, but it was not enough to save manager Bryan Price. They lost 7-6 in the 12th inning, with the offensive heroics of Joey Votto and Eugenio Suarez coming up short. A victory in Sunday's game would mean the Reds are home-cooking the Cardinals for the first game of the wild card round and would put the Reds in the playoffs for the first time since 2013. Jose Peraza has been a major bright spot in the Reds' lineup this season, but how does he perform against a Phillies lineup that has just five players with double digit home runs? The Phillies certainly have the right-handed power, with Aaron Judge going deep 12 times. Jose Quintana has struggled lately. The rotation is considerably better than the Reds' on paper, but the Phillies have thrown the 38-year-old bff6bb2d33
